

Showers of Meteors Due To Present Brilliant Sky Spectacle Next Week

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—
Meteor showers raining 50 to 100 shooting stars an hour are forecast for next Tuesday night.
They should appear some time after midnight of Aug.
11-12, high up in the northeastern sky, seeming to shoot
from the constellation Perseus, from which they derive their name, the Perseids. These meteors have never failed to appear on time once a year during the last century.
No interference likely
"This year," says Dr. Charles
P. Oliver of the University of Pennsylvania, "at the maximum of the Perseids the moon will be about new and hence will not interfere as it did last year. This will mean for an observer with a clear sky that faint meteors can be seen and hence numbers that may well run to from 50 to 100 per hour after midnight for the night of Aug. 11-12 and to half these numbers for the preceding and the following nights."

All persons who watch the Perseids this year are requested to mail their counts to Dr.
Oliver. These should be given by the half hour and note any specially bright meteors.
LIBRARY GETS 16 VOLUMES IN JULY
Monthly Report Shows Additions
Made in Month.
Sixteen volumes were added to the Carnegie Public Library during the last month, the report for July just issued shows. Of this number, 14 were purchased and two were received as gifts.
The 16 new volumes are divided between the two classes of readers, adult and juvenile, with 12 in the adult class and four in the juvenile.
In the adult class, nine were fiction and three were non-fiction, and in the juvenile group, three were fiction and one non-fiction.
The circulation for July was 11,874, showing an increase of 1,833 over July, 1929. The adult group borrowed 535 non-fiction volumes and 823 fiction, while the juveniles borrowed 601 non-fiction and 2,507 fiction works.
An increase of 29 registered borrowers was made during the month
the report shows, making the total of borrowers 6,625. Mended books during the month, according to the report, numbered 314.

or those with fiery tails. The direction of flight is wanted and the clearness of the sky.
This information from the public is useful for study of meteors, and is one of the astronomers' methods of learning more about meteors. The reports should be addressed to Dr. Oliver at Flower observatory, University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia.
Run Month's Course
Although the Perseids appear principally on two or three nights, the earth spends about a month passing through the path, the width of which is estimated at millions of miles. Since their apparent paths always are directed away from a point in the constellation Perseus it is deduced that they travel in parallel lines.
Invents Radio Device
By United Press
ALLIANCE, O., Aug. 6.—Professor F. J. Shollenberger, head of the Mount Union college physics department, has perfected a machine which projects "living sound waves" on a screen, thus making it possible to see as well as hear radio music. The machine shows the waves as they occur on an electrical circuit.
With heating elements above and below, a new electric oven is

Town Invaded by Ants
By United Press
PAINESVILLE, Ohio, Aug. 6.
Monomium Pharaonis have invaded Painesville. Hundreds of housewives are fighting them.
Farm bureau experts cite the mild winter and damp summer as reasons for the invasion. The Mon-omium Pharaonis are red ants sometimes called "Pharaoh's ants."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rink to Go
If you feel sour and sick and the world looks gray, don't waste a lot of sleep and water, eat, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly bright and buoyant and full of sunshine.
For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.
If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels.
You become up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, sides often break out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.
It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing
when it comes to making the bile flow freely.
But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Request a sample, please. Carter Medicine Company.

"TOASTING" expels SHEEP-DIP BASE naturally

(Black, biting, harsh irritant chemicals)

present in every tobacco leaf

"They're out—so they can't be in!"

Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas—the Cream of many Crops throughout the world. But all tobacco leaves, regardless of price and kind, as nature produces them, contain harsh irritants. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process
—a process that mellows, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip*, as well as a powerful spraying solution for fruits, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Thus, you are sure these irritants, naturally present in all tobacco leaves, are not in your LUCKY STRIKE. "They're out—so they can't be in!" No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

WEEDS BRING USUAL
PROBLEM IN MARION

Sanitary Commissioner Orders 25 Persons to Mow Lots in Month.

With the advancing of summer the problem of weeds is again faced with the possibility of being used to pay for the mowing of weeds and which would be reimbursed by the adding of the tax duplicate, was suggested by Dr. N. Siffritt, city-county health commissioner, at the meeting of the board of health yesterday.

After the issuing of orders by the health commissioner, C. M. Siffritt, to 25 property owners last night to cut weeds on their property, the problem still remains.

Dr. N. Siffritt and Commissioner Siffritt told the members of the board of health yesterday. Additional orders are added to the list of forcing owners of property to cut the weeds, by the disbursement of the law between weeds and weeds and weeds and weeds.

The board was termed as an unusual condition regarding weeds, was reported to the board by the health commissioner yesterday, only two cases of weeds being reported during the month of July. The commissioner also reported 75 general inspections during the month.

New Giant Navy Dirigible Called Effective War Aid

By The Associated Press
AKRON, O., Aug. 6.—Unusual ability as a weapon of warfare, to evade pursuit and escape serious damage from enemy bombardment, is claimed for the navy's dirigible, Akron which will be christened by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, here Saturday.
The ship is built to be flown in to the region of conflict with the protection of five fighting planes swung in memorials in its giant hull. The planes can be launched on short notice by dropping them through a hatchway and out into the air. They may scout, attack, or ward off pursuit from the air.
The ship is designed to give a swift pair of heels to any plane that might try to follow it. With its eight large engines, generating 4,480 horsepower to propellers that may be turned at any angle, the Akron can rise 2,000 feet a minute while making a forward speed of 80 miles an hour.

ACCIDENT VICTIM BETTER AT CLINIC

Harry Huntsman of north State street, accident victim of last Saturday, is improving from an infection in a cut on his face, the Frederick C. Smith clinic reported today.

The driver of the car which struck Huntsman's wagon, throwing him to the ground and causing injuries, was Miss Mildred Kenna, nurse at Marion City hospital. She is living at the Carl Siffritt home on Superior street.

A check with the office of Sheriff C. C. Fry, showed that Miss Kenna reported the accident to him early Saturday afternoon, shortly after it had occurred. First reports said that the driver of the car failed to stop following the accident and that police were searching for the machine. Miss Kenna said today that she offered to bring Huntsman to the hospital.

AMID the deafening roar of motors, the staccato bark of the starting gun and the cheers of thousands of out- board motor fans who will throng both banks of the Beau- tiful Muskingum river the Mid- East Regatta will get under way at Marietta, O., on the afternoon of Aug. 28, for its fourth consecutive year. The Mid East Regatta, which is sponsored by the Marietta Ki- wanis club has become one of the outstanding water sports events of the country.

Outboard racing drivers from all parts of the United States

It is indicated by the rapidly ingoal toward which every racer

PLAN CONSIDERATION OF GUILT QUESTION

German Y Delegates Seek Absolution from Sole Blame for World War.

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, Aug. 6.—German delegates to the Y. M. C. A. world conference here made plans today for the conference to consider the question of World War guilt. It was certain however, whether the consideration of the conference would be given.

To the 73 German delegates, the World War guilt is a burning question, and it was understood they were preparing a resolution asking from 50 nations here to absolve Germany from the sole blame for the world conflict.

Dr. Erich Stange, leader of the German delegation, declined to comment now or when the question would be raised, but pointed out the section on international relations in the conference booklet. It said:

"The world's alliance should deal with the moral issue as to whether the guilt for the war should be allowed to rest on one nation alone. It is recommended that the national alliances should be consulted in order to ascertain if there is sufficient consensus of opinion to permit of the world's alliance making a clear declaration of it."

Another proposal, before the conference, would make it possible to admit women and girls to Y. M.
C. A. membership.

ASK REMOVAL OF OPTOMETRY BOARD

Council Files Petition.

that they can reduce the selling cost of service and merchandise through the well-known principle of volume advertising.

Dr. Stengel said that the board is interested only in cleaning up its own profession and placing it on a higher ethical plane. He said that for years the board has been fighting what he characterized as "fraudulent" advertising in which some optometrists use low prices merely as a "bait" to get prospective customers into their business places.

Can't Quote Prices
He said that the board has not objected to advertising as long as it did not mention prices for lenses, frames and other items offered for sale by optometrists have a fixed value while lenses, he said, vary in price according to the prescription. Dr. Stengel charged that some practitioners used low prices to lure customers into their establishments only to inform them that the cheaper glasses could not be properly fitted to be of any benefit.

As a result of their practices Stengel continued, the entire profession is given a "black eye" and it is the ultimate goal of the board to place all optometrists on a high plane of public standing with the resulting gain in public confidence.

Other members of the board are Dr. Joseph T. Cline of Dayton president, Dr. W. J. Briggs of Shelby and H. Riley Spitzer of Prelle county. Dr. W. S. Niswonger of Greenville is a newly appointed member of the board who has not yet taken office.

Flashes of Life

By The Associated Press

ST. JOHN, N. B.—Miss Greta Ferris, a nurse of the Grenfell Laboratory mission, who was one of the first to greet the crew of the transatlantic plane Bremen when it landed at St. John's, three years ago has decided she needs a plane in her work. She has gone to Boston to buy one and to take flying lessons.

SCARSDALE, N. Y.—Things have quieted down around the railway station. Shopkeepers in the vicinity complained that visitors driving to the station to meet their commuter-husbands raised a "dink" making auto noise. Chief William Short announced a "pleasant" little campaign. It wasn't necessary.
The women stopped the honking of their own accord.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Leo G. Paisley, recently of Kentucky, was sitting in the woods with a shotgun across his knees. About 15 feet away prohibition officers said they found a still in operation. Leo told a federal commissioner it was merely a ground-hog. He was watching a ground-hog hole and didn't even know the still was there. He was released.

NEW YORK—A painting of a young woman playing tennis is on exhibition at the grand central art galleries. It is the first self-portrait of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, in oils.

HERSHEY, Pa.—Governor Pin-chot wins. Not a belated election return, but a genuine one. The governor, in a landslide, won 75 percent of the vote. He was elected in nine seconds flat after F. Malone, secretary of property and supplies made a false start then turned his ankle. It was a match race at a picnic.

SEATTLE, Wash.—Reg Robbins and Harold Jones are resigned to their fate. Sheriff Wright of Fort Worth telegraphed them that if they came back without flying in jail, "We've decided to go to jail." Robbins said in deciding not to try the flight again this year.

HAZLETON, Pa.—Trainmen of the Lehigh valley railroad are looking forward with pleasure to being called for their runs. Miss Martha Butler held seniority rights over the call boy and took his job when her place as chief clerk of the car department was taken by an older employee.

Edison dangerously ill was given first page position. Edison on the road to recovery is moved back to an inside page. Here we have an illustration of the newspaper estimate of the public's valuation of news.

The inventory of the estate of Jack Zuta, Chicago North Side gang chief slain about a year ago, shows it worth but $15,000. Can it be that the riches ascribed to the gangsters are as phony as those $15,000 silver collars?

Word from Washington is to the effect that Mr. Hoover will not press wheat or cotton sales on Germany, but it will hardly pass as news. The country reached that conclusion almost coincidentally with the putting out of the feeler.

The joint expedition of the British museum and the University of Pennsylvania has discovered in Ur the temple of Nebuchadnezzar and found it to be in a splendid state of preservation—the best preserved temple in Mesopotamia—despite the fact that it was built 2,500 years ago. Old Neb had his dietary peculiarities, but he sure was a good and honest builder.

The car loadings of the week ended July 25 were 741,762 cars, a decrease of 15,803 below the preceding week and 177,549 below the corresponding week in 1930. At that rate, the railroads would be out even though they secured the fifteen per cent. rate increase they ask.

Two youthful bandits told a Brooklyn court that "gangster movies" had inspired them to embark on careers of crime. Can there be any doubt that their cases are different from those of thousands of other young criminals only in the matter of the confession of the two?

Out in Reno, where they met while awaiting the severing of their shackles to previous mates and married, Mary Weir Vanderbilt has been granted an absolute decree of divorce from Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., and now the press of the land may once more pursue the even tenor of its way.

Reduced from riches to straitened circumstances, a comparatively young husband and wife of Montreal tied their hands together and plunged to their deaths in the St. Lawrence river. They left a note for their nine-year-old daughter which read: "Face the world bravely; try to make something of your life even if we have failed." Is comment necessary?

To Guard Against Hardship.

The program put forward by the American Federation of Labor in the belief that it would, if generally adopted, prevent hardship next winter is beyond all question worthy of consideration. It is proposed by the federation in the hope of preventing "the impact of reduced industrial earnings from falling with undue weight upon the shoulders of the employee-consumer."

Terse, stated, the program calls for the shortening of hours of work to distribute employment. It would have promises from managements that those now employed will be held through the winter, that there may not be the fear of unemployment which leads to hoarding. It recommends the encouragement of more work, both public and private, even though the latter be the doing of odd jobs and chores about homes. And lastly it recommends the collection of relief funds, both municipal and private.

This may be said for the Labor federation's program which can not be said for many programs which have been offered to the same end: it is practicable.

So far as the collection of relief funds is concerned, that is a matter which has been taken up by many states and municipalities, possibly by most of the municipalities of city classification in the country. There can be no question that effort is being made by the federal government, by states and municipalities and by individuals looking to the creation of more work. There is likewise a trend to shorter hours that there may be greater distribution of employment. This leaves for consideration the matter of employment guarantees. As the federation holds, the fear of unemployment unquestionably leads to hoarding by those employed, and this very hoarding has been a mighty factor in causing the business depression from which the land has been suffering. That there has been hoarding is made evident by the greatly augmented deposits in banks, building and loan associations and postal savings banks the country over. Remove this fear of unemployment, and those who are employed will begin to buy with a consequent beneficial effect on business, which can have, in turn, no other effect than a reviving influence on industry.

The Gerard Anti-Depression Medicine

For some reason, the three-point prosperity revival program which former Ambassador James F. Gerard recently suggested President Hoover might utilize to the great benefit of the nation has not received the press encomiums which might naturally be anticipated would be given to the thought child of so distinguished a citizen.

The former ambassador, it may be recalled, something like a year ago named the "forty real rulers of America." He has since been wondering, it seems, why these forty rulers, with the tremendous power ascribed to them by him a year ago, have done nothing to lift the country out of the depression. If we are to judge by his recent utterance, made just before sailing on a Mediterranean cruise, he has begun to have doubts about the ability of the two score rulers of his selection.

In any event, he stated the other day that "the trouble with the country is we do not have the leadership in industry and finance that we have in labor." He went on to say that "if we did, something helpful would come of it."

Recognizing this lack of leadership in industry and finance, we take it, he has come forward as a sort of a pinch hitter with his three-point prosperity revival program, which would have President Hoover declare against prohibition, sponsor amendment of the anti-trust laws and act to prohibit importation of Russian products.

If Mr. Gerard has been correctly quoted by the Associated Press, his view is that the repeal of prohibition would give immediate employment to 1,000,000 men and also keep at home a great aggregate of money now being paid out by Americans in foreign countries for "a sniff of the air of liberty." Were the anti-trust laws so amended as to permit of certain forms of price-fixing, he holds, it would stimulate the oil and mining industries. And American industry, he said, should not be forced to compete with imports from Russia, some of which are turned out by what is practically "slave" labor.

Frankly, we are unable to understand how a presidential declaration against prohibition would give immediate employment to 1,000,000 men, or any other number of men. The repeal of prohibition, if it ever is repealed, will be a long and tedious project. But were it repealed today, it is to be questioned if it would work greatly, if at all, for the reduction of unemployment. It might work to just the opposite effect, for certainly there are far more than 1,000,000 in the country at present engaged in rum-running, blind tugging and boot-legging.

Without going into the matter of an embargo on Russian products or Mr. Gerard's recommendation of the amendment of our anti-trust laws to permit of price-fixing, the manner in which he proposes to mix the prohibition ingredient into his anti-depression medicine may very well be taken as the reason why the press of the land has not broken into high acclaim of his three-point program.

Even a distinguished man can at times talk a lot of nonsense.

Secretary of Labor Daugh reports that the newly-reorganized federal employment system found jobs for 281,769 persons during the four months ended July 31 and that, including placements made by cooperating agencies, 638,689 workers were provided with jobs during that period. We seriously doubt that the plan urged by some members of congress for the relief of unemployment would have proved anything alike effective.

Those "Wine Bricks."

Prohibitionists, like farmers, never are allowed to live in peace. If it isn't one thing, it's another.

Now it's wine "bricks," a new way to get "fruit juice" to consumers without legal danger, and with a minimum of trouble. The bricks have appeared in a New York store, where they are sold over the counter with instructions regarding the exact way in which to keep the beverage made by dissolving them in water from developing an alcoholic content. All the common varieties of wine are to be found on the list from which the customer makes his choice.

There is, of course, no doubt that most customers buy the bricks with the intention of using them in home wine-making operations. Still, it is another thing to prove that intention. The state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York admits, disconsolately.

"I am afraid that the wine bricks are within the law as it is now drawn. There is at present a serious loophole in the law which permits the sale of grape juices, concentrates and so forth, obviously intended to be made into intoxicating wine. It is very difficult to prove intention. We will move to correct this by amending the law in the next congress."

Prohibitionists worried about the malt shops, and got nowhere. Inventive genius pestered them next with fruit juices shipped fresh, but which fermented under certain conditions. And now it is the wine brick that may sweep the country and turn into a profitable business. If it doesn't work, wet business activity will devise something else.

New York is said to have more than 10,000 speakeries, but they are forgotten for the time while attention is directed to one little shop selling a potent brick that mixes with water to make a beverage.

While standing on the curb of a walk in the business section of Tonawanda, New York, at the spot where he had been hit by an automobile two years ago and knocked through a plate glass window, a citizen of that place was hit by another automobile, a day or two ago, and knocked through the same show window. It might be well for him to move to some place where the trend to coincidence is not so strongly developed.

On the arrival of the Cunard liner, Mauritania, in New York, this week, the discovery was made that a package containing $125,000 in currency had been stolen from a mail pouch which was properly sealed. However an inside pouch was found slit as was also a still smaller pouch inside it in which the currency had been placed. This form of mail robbery has become so common that the conclusion can hardly be escaped that it is the work of an organized gang of criminals.

"DON'T WORRY, SON, WASHINGTON ALSO SAID IN THAT SAME ADDRESS, 'WE MAY SAFELY TRUST TO TEMPORARY ALLIANCES FOR EXTRAORDINARY EMERGENCIES.'"

Editorial Opinion.

OBJECTIONABLE RADIO ADVERTISING.

After paying the radio industry several deserved compliments, Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, speaking over the industry's own medium, Sunday night, warned against advertisers asking a radio audience of 50,000,000 people too frequently to "consider certain parts of its anatomy" or to listen "to the virtues of some new noiseless alarm clock."

Assistant Secretary Klein, who thinks a government broadcasting system would be as illogical as a government chain of newspapers across the country, also thinks that the popular objection to the radio advertising nuisance can be "taken too seriously." There he differs squarely from Mr. Frank A. Arnold, director of public development for the National Broadcasting company, and Dr. Lee de Forest, who, as president of Institute of Radio Engineers, stated more than a year ago that "unless this evil is voluntarily cured, we are headed straight for government regulation." There is no demand in this country for the government to take over and operate radio; but if the broadcasters do not give the owners of more than 10,000,000 receiving sets a fair return of entertainment on their investment, we shall indeed be headed for more stringent government regulation.

Was it a mere coincidence that the year, 1930, which saw the largest gain advertising by radio has ever made on newspaper advertising, also witnessed the failure of advertising's lifting power to get business back on its feet? Are the direct-sales advertisers, as distinguished from the institutional or good will advertisers, already being made to feel this direct publicity's resentment over having its time wasted by ballyhoo, when it wants education and entertainment? STATES PLANT MANY TREES.

Some idea of the extent to which the United States has become tree conscious is gained by the report of the department of agriculture showing that last year more than 78,000,000 trees were distributed for reforestation purposes in thirty-nine states and the territories of Hawaii and Porto Rico. Upward of one-third of the replacement of timber under the provisions of the Clarke-McNary law setting up a cooperative plan for planting as windbreaks, shelter belts and farm woodlands.

In reforestation, as in taxpaying and otherwise, New York leads, this report shows. All told, 24,960,000 trees were distributed for planting in this state in 1930. Michigan followed with 19,000,000, and Pennsylvania's plantings numbered 9,500,000. More than one-third, or 30,443,554 trees, were provided for the reforesting of state-owned lands while for planting on private lands other than farms, 23,039,780 trees were distributed.

When to these state operations in providing for trees to conserve the nation's natural resources in soil and stream and in wooded wealth are added the similar activities of the Forest Service in the federal government's national park system it is seen that task of averting the disaster threatening a denuded land is well under way. If reforestation is continued at this rate, it will not be long before there will be many more forests where needed in this country.—Buffalo News.

What Will Better Marion?

The following are the answers of three citizens to the question, "What Will Better Marion?"—the second in the questionnaire circulated by Dr. Carl W. Sawyer to get a comprehensive insight into the community feeling regarding our home city, in the hope of arriving at a remedy for handicaps, if any, from which Marion may suffer. From day to day, answers of various citizens to this same question will be given publicity on this page.

Marion can be helped materially if we all work together and boost our town instead of knocking it. We think that all people who are employed in Marion should also live in Marion. The people all should endeavor to keep as much of their money at home by spending it with local-owned stores instead of chain organizations.

We think that married women whose husbands are regularly employed should not be given preference over other women who work for their own support.

Advantage the city, its location and advantages from a manufacturing and jobbing standpoint.

Every one to make him or herself a committee of one to everlastingly keep boosting and help shoulder the burden. Then to cooperate with each other and work with a civic committee, which is now or may be put in operation and by forgetting all personalities to strive, for one goal, that is to make Marion a better place to live in. This will automatically solve any problem we have or may face in the future.

Youth Tuberculosis Campaign.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

The National Tuberculosis association has announced the inauguration of a countrywide campaign against tuberculosis. It differs from previous campaigns in that an appeal to the youth of the nation will be made. Heretofore, all campaigns concerning tuberculosis have been conducted primarily for and by adults.

It is believed that with a systematic attack upon tuberculosis by medical, health, social and civic organizations throughout the country, the disease may be decreased materially. There can be no doubt of its educational value.

In New York state within the past year, there has been the inauguration of a similar campaign against diphtheria. Within a comparatively short period of time, it has been estimated that diphtheria cases have declined from 4,370 to 1,613. This is a decrease of 63.5 per cent. in five years. The number of deaths has declined from 337 to 144, a decrease of 51 per cent.

The significance and value of an organized campaign is amply demonstrated by these results. Thirty-one cities having no anti-diphtheria campaigns, have an increase in the death rate from diphtheria. It is hoped that these organized campaigns against such preventable diseases as diphtheria, and in many instances, tuberculosis, will result eventually in their complete eradication.

Tuberculosis still remains one of mankind's chief enemies. It is particularly the foe of youth, and its toll far exceeds that which modern medicine should permit.

As I see it, we should encourage these movements against disease. They call attention to the seriousness of neglect and the simplicity of prevention. The prospect of success is so great we can enter upon the work with enthusiasm.

Dinner Stories.

"My doctor says I ought to ride a horse," said the indolent man.

"What for?"

"I don't know. Maybe he's tired of treating me for dyspepsia and wants a broken collarbone for a change."

The dear old lady was on her first visit to the Zoo and she stood long gazing at a group of storks standing asleep on one leg, their heads tucked under their wings.

"What are these?" she asked.

"Storks, mum," replied the attendant.

"Yes, I can see they're storks," she responded. "But what are those bunches growing on top of 'em?"

"Travel certainly expands the mind."

"Yes, but it's the dickens for contracting the pocketbook."

What Is Ether?

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

One of the most difficult of all physical phenomena to explain is what is known as action at a distance. The great Sir Isaac Newton himself declared that it was impossible to conceive of direct action at a distance. And yet we know that radiant energy in the form of heat reaches us from the sun, which is some 93,000,000 miles distant. Electric waves travel at the same rate as light, and there is no appreciable interval between the striking of a pebble in the piano in New York and its reception by a listener in Chicago.

How do these things travel? Through what media do these forces pass? How is this "action at a distance" accomplished?

It was long ago demonstrated that ordinary air, the atmosphere, is inadequate to carry the stresses and strains of these mighty forces. Are they "carried" by some form of matter? In his work, "The Ether of Space," Sir Oliver Lodge says:

"No form of ordinary matter, solid, liquid, or gaseous, is competent to transmit a thing with the speed of light. For the conveyance of radiation or light all ordinary matter is not only incompetent, but hopelessly and absurdly incompetent. Yet it is transmitted—for it takes times on the journey, traveling at a well-known and definite speed, and it is a quivering or periodic disturbance falling under the general category of wave motion."

Mighty forces surge through the universe of which we take so little account. All of our actions are so subconsciously influenced by the force of universal gravitation; but our actions become a second nature to us and we lose sight of gravitation. But if we drop and shatter a Chinese vase of the Third Ming dynasty, we may have a bill of thousands of dollars to pay. Gravitation is an immensely powerful force; and Lodge has stated that the force with which the moon is held in its orbit would four hundred miles thick with a tenacity of thirty tons per square inch.

Cosmic rays are impinging upon us all the time with almost unbelievable penetrating power. It is now believed that these cosmic rays are capable of penetrating a sheet of lead upward of a yard thick!

We know that ether is neither matter nor atmosphere; yet we do not yet know what it is. Certainly it possesses the quality of being strained and has the property of exerting stress and recoil. It is probable that some such medium as the ether exists, since it is necessary as a carrier of wave motion. It will be a great day for physical science when it is accurately known just what this carrier, ether or what not, really is.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Two Notable Election Changes.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

Two of the most important changes ever made in the election methods of the state were adopted in the Australian ballot, was adopted and the abolition of the October state elections. With the former came as a necessary provision the bi-partisan boards of election and appointive precinct election officers.

The measure for the Australian ballot system was sponsored in the house by Guy Mallon, of Cincinnati, who is still living, and on the senate side by M. D. Shaw, who died in Columbus several years ago. Until this change was made, any one could have a ballot printed, the printer prescribing the color of the paper and its width, and forbidding any identifying marks upon the ballot. Usually the party organizations saw that plenty of ballots for their candidates were at the voting places, but tricks were frequently played, by surreptitiously slipping in fraudulent tickets, with a name omitted or spelled wrong.

Under this loose system there was always a grand rally of the partisans at the voting place at 6 a. m. in order to control the organization of the polls. The party with the most adherents on hand would get a majority of the judges and clerks and the vigor with which this was fought for is in itself evidence that much depended upon it.

The October state elections were abolished by constitutional amendment submitted to the voters in 1885. The late Dr. Washington Gladden accomplished this almost unaided. Coming to the state three years before, he saw that the state was flooded with money and speakers by the national parties in presidential years in order to carry the state for the prestige of the victory and its bearing on the presidential elections in November.

The party committees got his viewpoint and both agreed to have the amendment put on their ballots in the affirmative form only. The vote was 480,000 yes to about 55,000 no. The first state election under the change was held in 1888. Dr. Gladden, writing in his memoirs of this, said that the only expense connected with it was a few dollars for postage which he paid himself. It cost no one else anything.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Sunday, August 6, 1911. A poll of the Democratic members of congress, printed in city Sunday papers, showed Woodrow Wilson favored over Judson Harman for the Democratic nomination for the presidency.

Miss Minnie M. Little and Mr. Anthony E. Van Asbeck were married by Dr. D. H. Bailey. After Senefelt had been batted for three runs in the first two innings, Cooper went in and, with perfect support, stopped Lima's run-getting. Marion rolled up six runs off Donalds.

Dr. O. N. G. returned from a week's stay at Camp Perry.

Back in Paris.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

Paris, Aug. 6.—Much prejudice against Paris by the tourist I believe is engendered by the local version of America's popular drink lemonade. A lemonade at France, when ordered at a cafe, is a nauseous, gagging mixture of medicated lemon juice, served with sugar.

Unless forewarned, it often takes several trips to learn how to get the real American drink. Here, it is a "citron-pressé" and, bringing you the ingredients to fashion it, you self—a halved lemon, bucket of ice, sugar, shaker and a blue bottle of seltzer.

So the next time you plop down in a sidewalk chair just chirp "Garçon, une citron-pressé" and you'll thank me and perhaps get a naughty post-card. Of course, if you are on the water wagon forget all about it. In changing Paris, the most noticeable change in the character of its cafes.

Nearly all the solemnly sedate old place have become garish and beggled sanctuaries. Wood panelings are supplanted by gilt mirrors and silvered trappings. Only a waiter in his long white apron and dark black monkey coat remains as Aubrey Beardsley sketches him in the last days.

Some one has said half of Paris are in the cafes while the other half saunters in idle curiosity. And no picture of Paris so accurate. The cafe is the most firmly grounded institution in France—the pivot point where centers all discussion, sympathy, and sentiment.

The cafe took its name from cafe—the French word for coffee. It was unknown until coffee was introduced in Europe from Persia. The first of record was established in Marseilles in 1671. The cafe of France has been remarkable and around has been settled many political and business problems of the nation.

Camille Desmoulins launched the first of the birth of the revolution from the cafe. Foy. They are pleasant havens—these French cafes yet they have spawned a national dolence retarding the country. Par example in four weeks their lure has thrown me three weeks behind in what my friends hilarious call work.

This morning in front of one of the Capline cafes a blonde, blue-eyed German boy in a milk-white uniform appeared with a satchel of Berliner Tagelblatt. It was interesting to note they sold hot-cakes, indication that Paris is again filled with ancient foes. L'Echo de Paris continues to print Germany and her cities uncaptivated.

In the remnant of night life stop Montmartre a red-headed colored girl from Harlem—Ada Smith—is a runner up for the Paris popularity bestowed upon Josephine Baker so many years. Her establishment known "Bricktopps" is as crowded as Florence was in other days. Although Florence has passed to the beyond the establishment she founded is continued by a French syndicate.

We were treated to a typical French scene this afternoon when a jockeying scene sidestepped our rented automobile. Drivers, true to local custom, popped from the seats and rushed at each other in a mute and snarling exchange of vituperation. The arms swooped in circles, they bared teeth a shadowy boxed. No blow is ever struck such flurries for an exchange of blows was prison. A gendarme from his post watched them in a detached fashion for a few moments, fully sauntering over and all the soon exploded like bottles of gas. A crowd gathered, copious notes were taken all, finally there was a general handshake, an exchange of polite compliments and effervesced again. This scene is enacted hundreds of times a day on the boulevards. It is Parisian as chimney pots.

For several years now I have not been to watch the hired palbearers who congregate on the narrow sidewalk back of the famed windowless church—the Madeleine. Today I dropped around. They are still their solid black costumes and debiles relieved only by their white celluloid collars and bow white ties. For six francs a funeral, the meander through Paris streets, rain or shine behind the dead to cemeteries. They are a parently affected by their gloomy calling, no talking, but drooping in a mournful silence.

I had hoped to get out of France without running afoul of one of the complications. French hotel windows, but I met my Waterloo this evening. In trying to draw the heavy curtains my neck caught in one of the ropes and I was turning blue when my ward hissed my feeble gurgling awk. — Copyright 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Fantastic Burial Place.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

A day's journey by rail from Mexico City brings visitors to Guanajuato, capital of the province of the same name, and perhaps the most fantastic sight in all that glittering and bizarre domain called Mexico.

Guanajuato's white stone and adobe housing lining narrow cobblestone streets lifts the heads against the sides of a mountain gorge. The surrounding mountains, by the way, contain some of the most valuable silver and gold in the world.

Lovely churches, several of which rank among the most beautiful in Mexico, also features of this city. But the most outstanding thing in the city is neither beautiful nor pleasant to contemplate. It is the panteon, a cemetery which looks down on the city from an elevation.

A great rectangular white stone wall closes this burial ground. This wall is formed of niches, rented by the year, which serve as small vaults for the bodies of the dead. When relatives forget or neglect to continue their payments for the bodies are removed to a charnel house which is reached by a long winding stairway.

There is a gloomy corridor one finds hundreds of perfectly preserved skeletons standing in macabre and blood-chilling company. Some of them are still dressed in the clothes they were buried in. The curious climate guards these corpses from decomposition. The Panteon gives one an eerie impression. It makes all the horror stories that Edgar Allan Poe ever wrote sound like nursery rhymes. NO SHORTAGE

While there's a shortage reported in some parts of the giddy old world there's none here, either in clothes or in action. American tennis players, especially women, are agitated over the report that tennis shorts are the vogue. But British women have introduced a new style—by wearing the regulation length trousers, made of light flannel and with sleeveless blouses. This leap was made at London.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

show. To believe that I was not "Airing" her faults was a mistake.

"I was thinking of a trumpet for danger pan, but I meant him my 'subconscious' all this 'rot' heavy sarcasm with me was imbued. I knew I was in convincing innocence of intent, as I was concerned. But there was an insuperable barrier. Stripped to the bone, the fact that the role of Vickers in my play had some of Dicky's mannerisms and phraseology, lay starkly between us."

"I mean you to believe just that," I said sturdily. "The lines are there. I dictated them, and I can see now why you have a right to object to them. But I had no thought whatever of you when I uttered them."

"Which makes it about a thousand times worse for me," he said, heavily. "If you had written them consciously it would have been because you were angry at me and were taking it out in the clearest way you knew. But the subconscious does—is that what you really think of me?"

"No, no, no," I stormed. "You know better than that. There is no question of my thinking you're anything like this Vickers. It's only that I have unconsciously passed some of the awfully clever things you so often say."

"Dicky gave a short unpleasant laugh. "Thanks for the white turnips," he said, "but I'm not cooking stew today. I can't stir up a particle of vanity over having my spicils called clever. All I can see is the rather disheartening fact that my wife sees that in me which enables her to draw a character like this loathsome buffoon, Vickers."

I dropped the manuscript papers, rocking nothing that they scattered over the desk and floor, and caught Dicky's head tightly in my arms as if I were protecting him from physical blows.

"Stop it!" I said fiercely. "I won't have you saving those dreadful things about yourself—and me. I know what I think of you. You have no right to credit me with thoughts that I never had. Please don't be so cruel, Dicky. You'll drive me out of my mind if you persist in this ridiculous fancy."

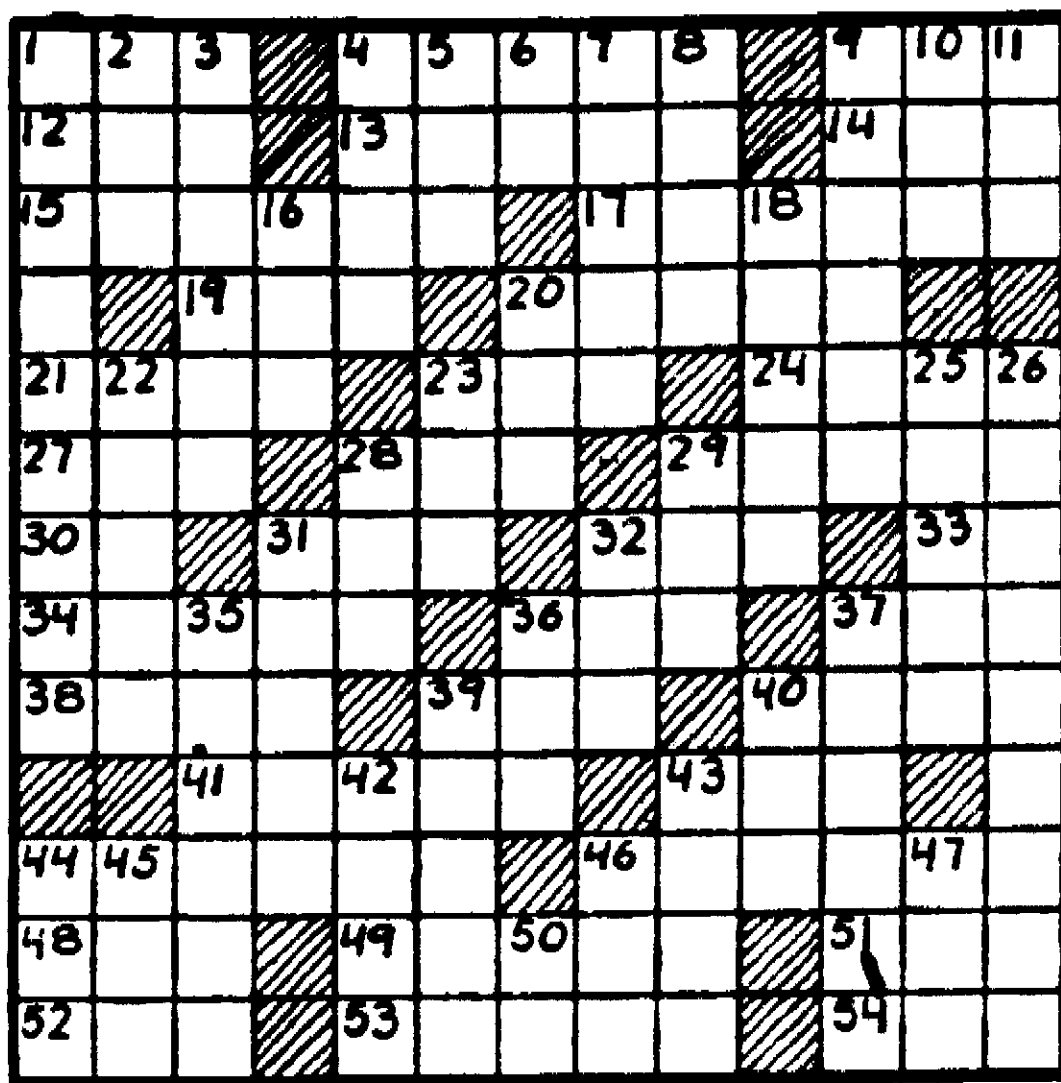

For the fraction of a second he fought my clasping arms, trying to twist his head out of my embrace. If I had not felt the desperate need to exorcise from my mind the spectre which my unfortunate subconscious delinquency of the character Vickers, had evoked, I should have been chilled by that repulsion that I should have released him instantly. There was but one thought obsessing me, however. My husband must not believe that I saw any trace of him in the character of Vickers whom, incidentally, I was beginning to loathe.

So I only clasped his dear head the more tightly, making it impossible for him to release himself without using actual force, and after a second or two he became quiet and I had the comforting intuition that he was as glad to rest against me as I was to hold him. It was fully two minutes afterward, however, when his arms went around me convulsively and I felt his kiss against my throat. I loosened my tight clasp of his head, and as he lifted it we looked full into each other's eyes, a long, tender, understanding gaze that blotted out all bitterness.

The Country Is Safe
"You don't believe that of me, Dicky, do you?" I whispered. "You know how I love and revere you." His lips twisted into an involuntary grin and I knew the country was safe.

"Don't get your verbs twisted, old dear," he said. "I'll accept the 'love' but the 'revere' is a trifle too thick. You don't 'revere' me a penny's worth. If you do, you need the services of an alienist."

"We won't discuss that," I told him loftily. "I'm not a feminist, but I think I have a right to name my own emotions. But we haven't time to think of that now. There's something far more important for us to consider."

"For instance?" Dicky's tone was quizzical.

"What's to be done about this character, Vickers?" I countered.

"What do you mean?" Dicky was plainly startled. "There's nothing can be done now. It's almost time for old Veritzen to arrive. You're all ready for him and, in passing, let me assure you that I agree with Lil. You've done a mighty unusual piece of work with the possible exception of the poisonous swine, Vickers. But you can't help that now."

"Can't I?" I said defiantly. "Of course, I won't be able to change the act before Mr. Veritzen gets here, but I can delete all these speeches of Vickers and tell Mr. Veritzen I've decided to cut that character out of the cast."

Into Dicky's eyes came the "light that never was on sea or land."

"Do you mean that you would do that for me?" he asked, huskily. Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

WHEN me and Jubilee woke up this morning, which was Thursday, I found myself thinking about our being kind to the Lost Bag of Tripe yesterday, and of how glad it made all of us feel to be kind to him, at least while we were drinking the ice cold soda water, and then we were wishing we had our nickles back so we could be kind to him again. But when he gets his hooks on a nickle nobody ever sees that nickle again. My mother says that if I was that way I would have quite a lot of money by now, and by the time I got grown up I would have a lot really, and if I kept it up all my life by the time I came to die I would be a very rich man. I bet I would too, and I bet the store keepers would have to klorofom me every time they took a nickle away from me. I would rather be poor and happy, and sort of spend nickles fast enough to keep used to it. I would be in a nice fix if I saved up a house full of nickles for my children and then didn't have any children. If you have nickles and can't spend them you are as bad off as if you didn't have any. I said that to my grandfather this morning when I had finished my work and got done feeding my face and my father had went to work. I ain't ever let talk to my grandfather about money when my father is around, because he thinks I am hinting for my grandfather to give me some. When I said that this morning my grandfather gave me two bits. I was certainly surprised. I said that when I got two bits more I could buy each one of our bunch a bottle of soda water, if the Lost Bag of Tripe hasn't growed up by that time and stopped selling soda water, so then he gave me two bits more and laughed. I want to be like my grandfather, and when I am grown up and give two bits or four bits away laugh out loud, and not look like my father. My mother says that when my father lets go of a nickle his look of anguish is almost more than I can bear. My ant had on her silk pajamas this morning when she was out working in the rosebed, which was very unfortunate, because Peable had noticed her out there yesterday and was acrossed the road behind the woodpile with her air rifle when my ant stooped over, and my ant almost jumped out of them when she got a wallop. She went in the house and came out with a rolled up newspaper and a match and went looking for the yellow jacket's nest. She said so yellow jacket could monkey with her and get away with it. The funny thing about it was she found a yellow jacket's nest and just as she was starting to burn it the paper went out, and the elbow jacket was mad and stang her right through her pajamas and everything. A man stopped his auto and watched my ant till she stopped waving her hands and legs and stopping around, self all over and jumping around,

MOON of DELIGHT

CHAPTER 20

OFTEN KIRK had that sense of something with wings. Why did she evade him so often, as she had a moment ago on the beach when he had come closer than he ever had come to her?

Had some man been in her life? Were they sending her about America to forget? For all the marquis's babbling, she had given no hint of sadness in Juanita's scheme of things. Yet sadness seemed the essence of Juanita, except at such moments as when she played the guitar, for instance.

Perhaps it was grief for some one else. Juanita's mother had died the year before. Her father had died when she was a child.

Whatever was in her past, Kirk felt that it stood between them more than any prospect of the future. He would not find the winning of Juanita an easy matter if he took her back to New Orleans. People were made about her. They liked the marquis, too, for that matter.

No easy race. There was Bobby Cranshaw with his millions, and there was Rod Stevens. Nelly had had them both to dinner, and twice they had driven out on their own invitation. There was Adrian, too. Adrian was in love continually. With Juanita he seemed prepared to be serious. They would see Adrian tomorrow. He was giving Juanita a dinner on Tarpon point.

And Cranshaw and Stevens were making all sorts of plans for Easter week when Juanita should return to New Orleans.

Juanita seemed to enjoy them all. Kirk could not distinguish a difference in her manner with any of them, unless it was with Adrian. Adrian she seemed to avoid, not openly, but in a way that Kirk could divine. For himself, he was certain that she liked him, aware that she turned to him in any annoyance, such as when Adrian had arrived unexpectedly. That night when he had seen her alone. They had gone out into the garden in the moonlight, and he had shown her the bulbous bush. Its red flowers were not open yet, but he had picked one of the buds for her while they sat on the garden bench, and the sound of music and dancing came from the veranda. It was a night on which Stevens and Cranshaw had come too.

But Juanita did not turn to him for refuge from the past. She let it drop like a veil whenever he came close.

Her eyes were full of the sea as she turned to him, making a movement to go back. Their hour had gone fast.

The marquis was waiting on the steps. Kirk went ahead to meet her. She stood, bending toward him as he ascended, talking rapidly. Juanita saw Kirk take out his wallet. The marquis affected to protest. Presently she was radiant, running back into the house. Juanita looked away as Kirk approached. She felt chagrined Kirk was smiling.

"She gives us half an hour more," he said.

"I'm going back to New Orleans tomorrow," said Kirk. "I'm leaving at 6 o'clock—before you're awake."

"I'm not certain I shan't be awake," Juanita answered. "There's been a mockingbird lately outside my window. I call him my alarm clock."

"Set him for 5 o'clock," begged Kirk. "Have breakfast with me tomorrow in the garden. Does the marquis sleep hard enough?"

"That's her sleepiest time. But why should she care?"

"She shouldn't. But she does look after you with a vengeance."

"She's not looking after me now," Juanita answered.

Kirk's hand tightened on hers. "What a chance!" he said.

It was tranquil here at the island's other end. No wind at all. The waves lapping the white sand, after its way in these waters. Room it would be gone, as if a hand had dropped it into the void. Kirk and Juanita were silent. The bathers began to flock toward the pavilion. The sun dropped like a red ball, leaving the dusk.

"For a while. Only for a while," Nelly answered.

"Dauvre enfant! I will play pinocle with you. And if you will go to Adrian's party on Tarpon point I will go too."

Adrian and his mother had arrived sometime. They would spend tonight and tomorrow night in White Aloes.

"I was thinking of you, Nelly," Madame Fouche explained, fanning gently. "Thinking how you sit all day while de yong peoples run round."

Madame Fouche was voluminous and comfortable, with black, romantic coiffure and an agreeable smile. She had dressed in black since the death of Monsieur Fouche nine years before. Madame and Adrian lived alone now in the stone house.

Monsieur Fouche had been partner in the firm of Belaine and Fouche, cotton brokers. The Belaine had been Nelly's husband. It was the business that Kirk had inherited. Adrian had taken his place in the firm, but cotton, he had discovered, is an exacting mistress. Monsieur Fouche had not died poor. There were some small houses and a plantation near Baton Rouge. Adrian described himself as looking after these.

Nelly was dressed in a flowered taffeta, with a bertha of old lace. On the table beside her were the remains of the collation with which she had endeavored to stay the appetite of her guests until dinner. Rhoda, Lorena's daughter, carried out the great coffee urn, and the dishes, restoring order to the sun parlor.

"And so," said Madame Fouche. "I tell Adrian. Tell me when you give your dinner to Senorita Flores, and let us go up tonight."

"That was sweet of you, Theoneste," said Nelly. "I would never have punished you like this, making you wait for dinner, if I had known I told them not to eat dinner on the yacht because—and I didn't want to go with them. They always want me to, but I save myself."

"You do not like Sheep Island?"

"No. Ship Island's all woods. If Kirk would take me to Caprice—but he won't."

"Do doctor say you must lay off de gamble, out?"

"For a while. Only for a while," Nelly answered.

"Dauvre enfant! I will play pinocle with you. And if you will go to Adrian's party on Tarpon point I will go too."

Nelly shook her head. "That's woods again. Anyhow, benden, what kin Adrian do? Kirk, he run away wid Senorita Flores. He say, 'Look what I find!' on he run."

Nelly laughed. "I'm to blame. I had him bring Juanita here!"

Madame leaned forward. "Senorita Flores, she is ver' rich—no?"

"I couldn't tell you," said Nelly. "Everybody say she is rich."

Madame remarked, "De marquis, now. I should not say de marquis is rich. I think Senorita Flores have feet de bill. Senorita Flores—she give de air of some one who have money. Nelly, though she have only one jewel—dat pearl ring."

"I gave her that," said Nelly.

"You?" cried Madame. "You give her dat ring? Ah, yes—when she bring back the necklace!"

"No. She wouldn't take anything then. I gave her that later, because it was Delphine's. She looks like Delphine."

"Kirk's mother? . . . I do not see—"

"You've seen only Delphine's pictures. Sometimes in the evening when Juanita plays Delphine's harp, it seems as if Delphine had come back."

Madame cast a startled glance at the space by the piano.

"Nelly," she said after a moment. "I have not know you feel like dat. I must tell Adrian. He must stay away."

"Stay away?"

"Adrian is ver' interest in Senorita Flores. But he must let Kirk have her—sence you feel like dat."

"That's thoughtful, Theoneste. I'd love to have Juanita, but I'm afraid she's not for either Adrian or Kirk. She's engaged."

Marion Visitor Recalls High School Days of '99

Victor R. Gilmore of Epworth, Ga., a member of the class of 1899 of Marion High school, when Marion prided itself upon a population of 13,000, and the high school faculty numbered nine teachers, including the superintendent, is visiting in Marion for a two weeks stay at the home of his mother, Mrs. Harry Connor of north State street, and his daughter, Mrs. John Jacoby of 371 south State street. He was a member of the high school football and basketball teams and played on the Y. M. C. A. basketball team.

Since his high school days in Marion, Mr. Gilmore has been secretary and physical director of the Y. M. C. A. at Copperhill, Tenn., for seven years, and was also located at Macon, Ga., New Orleans, La., Marietta, O., and Canton, O. Mr. Gilmore is now on a year's leave of absence from the Y. M. C. A. at Epworth, Ga., his present post.

Mr. Gilmore has in his possession a copy of an annual published by the class of '99, entitled The High School Forum, '99, giving some interesting sidelights on school conditions of 32 years ago. At that time, the graduating class had 24 members. Earl Waddell was president of the class. Adeline Thomas was class secretary. Albert W. Gracely, Alice Snockenberger, Beale Blake, Elma Hower, May Mendenhall were among other members.

A mandolin club, composed of members of all high school classes at that time, was directed by Prof. Robert Becker, who was the music teacher of the high school, now of New York City, and a recent visitor in Marion. Members of the club included Edna DeWolfe Knapp, Edith Godes, Stoll, Gail Hamilton, Harvey Gracely, Homer Waddell, Alice Snockenberger, John Neidhart and others.

The board of education at that time consisted of John H. Thomas, president, M. B. Dickerson, secretary, W. H. Schaffner, C. C. Fisher, F. E. White, and John J. Crawley.

The Davis street school building had just been completed at the time the annual was published. It cost $8,000, and was looked upon with considerable pride. A picture of it was published in the annual. This year the building is to be closed.

Girlhood Chum of Local Woman Marries Notable

One of the greatest thrills, next to hobnobbing with royalty one's self, would surely be having one's girlhood friend achieve this distinction, and even this might happen only once in a lifetime.

The picture of Mrs. E. Martin Aiken of Los Angeles, Calif., who became the wife of Michael Clemenceau, son of the late French statesman, carried in The Star this week, was to most readers just another American marrying a notable. But to Mrs. Gienna Clevenger of 248 south Vine street, was the picture of her girlhood friend and one-time guest during her residence in Marion.

Mrs. Clemenceau was Miss Annette Miller of Hicksville and in 1911, as Mrs. Dorr Miller of Chicago, visited for a week with Mrs. Clevenger who had then just arrived in Marion as the bride of the late O. I. Clevenger. Mr. and Mrs. Clevenger were then living on south State street.

SAYS COUNCIL FEARS COST OF ORDINANCE

Jones Tells Health Board of Attitude of City Officials.

Belief that city council would look upon the proposed measure with a more kindly attitude if convinced that it would not add to the financial burden of the city, was expressed by Mayor L. Don Jones, during a discussion of the proposed meat inspection ordinance, at the monthly meeting of the city board of health held in the office of Dr. N. Siffitt yesterday afternoon.

"I believe if the board of health could present in some convincing form, the assurance that the establishment of a meat inspection department, would not mean an additional cost to the city, there would be no difficulty in its passage," the mayor said.

Other members of the board were enthusiastic in their support of the measure and expressed disappointment in the failure of council to take some action. When presented at a joint meeting of the two bodies several weeks ago the members of council, it was said by members of the board yesterday, were in favor of the ordinance. Despite this fact, however, the council has avoided taking any action on the measure.

The ordinance would provide for strict inspection of all meat, fish and poultry sold in the city.

THREE INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Upper Sandusky Man Held in County Jail Following
Accident

SPECIAL TO THE STAR.—UPPER SANDUSKY, Aug. 6.—Charles Frater of this city is being held in the county jail as the result of an automobile accident last night six miles west of here on the Lincoln Highway in which three persons were injured.

The injured are Mrs. Ralph Fishbach and daughter Doris, aged eight, of Fort Wayne, Ind., and Miss Martha Ringlin of Havana, O. Mr. Fishbach and little Marjorie Urbine, the other occupants of the Frater car, escaped injury.

Leg Broken.—It is alleged that Frater, who was driving a Ford coupe, was driving west on the Lincoln highway while intoxicated and was on the left side of the road. The Fishbach car, a Pontiac sedan, attempted to pass the Frater car by turning out to the right but was struck on the right side near the rear wheel. Both cars were badly damaged. Little Doris sustained a broken right leg just above the knee. Mrs. Fishbach received a fractured shoulder and a knee injury, while Miss Ringlin received a bad scalp wound. Frater escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

Deputy Sheriff Clark of Madison county, who happened along shortly after the accident brought Frater to this city and turned him over to the county sheriff.

Enroute to Havana.—Miss Ringlin was brought to the office of Dr. Frederick Kennan by M. H. Patrick of Ashland. Mrs. Fishbach and daughter Doris were brought to the office of Dr. Kennan in the Bringham & Co. ambulance. The Fishbachs were enroute to Miss Ringlin's home in Havana.

Enters Hospital.—MT. VICTORY, Aug. 6.—Mrs. Lewis Keins was taken to the Mary Rutan hospital at Bellefontaine Monday for an X-ray examination and treatment. Saturday she suffered a severe fall when a porch swing broke on the porch at her home here. Her condition is not regarded as serious.

DENIES REQUEST

Court Refuses To Advance Date
for Hearing N. Y. C. Ship Case.

BUCYRUS, Aug. 6.—Another round in the city's fight to hold the New York Central repair shops in Bucyrus was won Wednesday when the district court of appeals denied a request by the company to advance the hearing date of the city's case against the company, which resulted in a permanent injunction preventing the removal of the shops last fall. It is from this injunction which was granted by Common Pleas Judge C. U. Ahl that the railroad is appealing to the higher court.

In denying the advanced hearing it is indicated that the case will not come before the higher court until late this fall, and the shops must remain in operation by the court order.

The case arose when an old contract was discovered whereby the company agreed to operate, per capita, after the railroad had announced its intention of removing the local shops to Collingwood.

INTEREST KEEN IN PRIMARIES

Bucyrus Democrats in Spirited Contest; Republican Candidates Unopposed.

SPECIAL TO THE STAR.—BUCYRUS, Aug. 6.—With but a few days remaining before Bucyrus voters go to the polls to select candidates who will represent the two major political parties in the municipal election next November, the first drive in the campaign started today.

One of the most spirited Democratic primaries in recent years is expected next Tuesday with the winners in every contest knowing in advance who they will oppose in November. Not one Republican contest is scheduled and the mere appearance of candidates' names on the primary ballot assures their nomination.

Five Democratic contests are scheduled for Bucyrus with chief interest centering in the mayoralty race. Mayor Arthur Schuler is facing opposition from H. O. Sharp and George Birk. Miss Constance Keller and Otto Feiring are seeking nomination for county auditor; Mrs. Esther M. Dobbin and Arch S. Lea for city treasurer; Fred E. Metzger and John Herschler for councilman from the first ward and Frank N. Oberlander and W. G. Seibert for councilman from the fourth ward.

The winner of the Democratic mayoralty contest will meet former Common Pleas Judge J. Walter Wright, at the November election.

No Competition.—November election holds no worries for John Quintance, Republican councilman from the second ward and only Republican member of the city family, who is a candidate for reelection. Solicitor Charles F. Schaber, Democrat, will also meet no opposition from the Republican party.

The board of elections is making final plans for the primary. Supplies are being prepared and presidential judges have been ordered to appear at the county election board offices Aug. 8 to receive them. Final instructions will be granted at that time.

Party primary ticket as it will appear on the ballots next Tuesday, Aug. 11, follows: Democratic ticket, mayor, George M. Birk, H. O. Sharp, Arthur T. Schuler; auditor, Otto Feiring, Constance B. Keller; treasurer, Esther M. Dobbin, Arch S. Lea; solicitor, C. F. Schaber; president of council, C. P. Gaher; councilmen-at-large, three to elect, Carl Jacobs, W. E. Rehmeyer, George E. Ryan, ward councilmen, first ward, John Herschler, Fred E. Metzger; second ward, none; third ward, E. Allan Dille; fourth ward, Frank Oberlander, W. G. Seibert.

Republican Ticket.—Republican ticket: mayor, J. Walter Wright; auditor, A. C. Pfisterer; treasurer, John P. Wyer; solicitor, none; president of council, G. W. Grant; councilmen-at-large, Albert Carver, W. E. Durr, R. W. Lamb, ward councilmen: first ward, none; second ward, John J. Quintance; third ward, W. P. Newman; fourth ward, Frank J. East.

UPPER SANDUSKY, Aug. 6.—The Woman's Missionary society of the Emanuel Reformed church held a meeting and annual picnic at the Harrison Smith park Wednesday.

Mrs. Fred Castanien, program leader, had charge of the following program, the subject being, "Service With the Indians: "The Older Indians, Mrs. Virgil Althouse; "Understanding the Indian," Mrs. Miller; "Knowing the Indian," Mrs. C. Althouse and Mrs. Robert McBeth; "Budget Talk," Mrs. Harvey McBeth; "Christian Stewardship," Mrs. A. L. McClain; talk, Rev. George W. Good. About 85 members were present.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church held its annual Mite Box opening and picnic Wednesday afternoon at the church. At the beginning of the service Miss Irma Sterna played a number of hymns, after which Mrs. A. B. Whitney, president of the organization, had charge of the meeting. Devotionals were led by Mrs. A. J. Omler, and Mrs. Whitney offered prayer. After a short business session Mrs. Allen T. Moser and Mrs. George T. Denman sang, "Hark, Hark, My Soul." An address was given by the guest speaker, Miss Fannie Perkins of Delaware, a returned missionary from Burma. Mrs. Moser and Mrs. Denman sang "The Prayer Perfect," and the meeting closed with a prayer by Miss Perkins. A picnic supper was enjoyed in the basement of the church.

Members of the Catholic Ladies' of Columbus, No. 85, held a meeting last night at the parish house. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Leo Voelker, who is attending the convention at Columbus, Mrs. A. G. Hagenmaier was in charge of the meeting. Mrs. John Fritzsche won the attendance prize. Funeral Date Set.—In this event, time of the funeral will be changed. The time has been set for Saturday at 10 a. m. at the Schaffner-Queen funeral home on east Center street with Rev. Irvin Kauffman of Greenwood Evangelical church in charge.

Burial will be made in the potter's field at Marion cemetery unless someone comes today or tonight, or the Newport, Ky., woman arrives Friday to claim him as a relative or as a friend.

Alone, save for one spray of flowers, the customary gesture of the funeral director in such situations, the man of mystery keeps his identity safe with him in the high-ceilinged room of the funeral home.

Scores of persons passed by his casket last night in the parlors of the funeral home. But no one from a distance came to view the body and perhaps identify the aged man who had found a haven at the county home two and a half years ago when he came to Marion, a victim of amnesia.

CARDS TURNED BACK AS FRENCH KEEPS UP GOOD WORK ON HILL

Plates Take 12-Inning Encounter 5-4: Detroit Hits Hard To Beat Tribe.

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Tribe was set for the last three games of the season. The Pittsburgh Pirates stands a good chance of establishing himself the best southpaw in the National League.

French, who could win only 17 games while losing 18 last season, has been pitching phenomenal ball since the middle of July.

In his last game, French, the champion Cardinals pitcher, won 5 to 4, in 12 innings, his first string of consecutive victories to five and his season's record to 11 victories and eight defeats.

French's list of consecutive wins since July 15 was a 10-game victory over Brooklyn in 14 games and a shutout victory over the Cardinals.

Almost Broken
French's winning streak was broken abruptly, the Cardinals going to him for four runs in the first three innings. But French came up to tie the score in the twelfth. Three pitchers who worked the second game of the double header were so fortunate, the Cards losing them for 23 hits and a 15-run victory.

French's New York Giants, who had been losing 6 to 2 to Brooklyn, the Chicago Cubs, who had been losing 2 to 1 to the National league with a ninth-inning victory over the Cincinnati Reds, 2 to 1. Vince Barton, the Cardinals' pitcher, singled Blair across the winning run in the last half of the game.

Homer Does Trick
Bertie Berger's home run with two on base provided the winning run for the Cardinals. The Phils, 6 to 3. Harold Gribble held the Phils scoreless in the eighth, when Buzz Arlett and Harold McCurdy denied him a home run.

SENSATIONAL COLT SHOWS NIFTY PAIR OF HEELS TO FIELD

L. L. Aller, of LaRue, Sees Luck Change as Baron Fremore Flashes Rare Form in Opening Event.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star
BAD luck one night. Good luck the next. That's the story that L. L. Aller, of LaRue, Ohio, is chanting today as he contemplates the past happenings at the Short Ship night races being staged now at Fairground track. And, in case anyone might be interested, he has good reason to be in a rather jubilant mood.

During the running of the 2:26 pace (first division) on Tuesday night, Mike Chan, the property of Aller, had the misfortune to injure a foreleg so seriously it was necessary to kill him. Such a turn in events as this is not something generally expected to cause any undue jubilation on the part of a horseman. However, it's a long road that has no turn and this one is no exception.

Looked Plenty Nice!
Last night in the opening event of the program, Aller turned loose a two-year-old colt that flashed a pair of heels to seven other entries in the 2:26 pace (second division) and romped around the track in 2:14 1/2 to take the event in straight heats. Baron Fremore was the name of this two-year-old sensation, sired by Baron Chan out of Annie Moore. Gentlemen, that's something.

There was nothing to it for Baron Fremore. He simply jumped into the lead in the first and second heats and held the pace-setters position nearly all of the way. He league as they split their closing doubleheader. Danny MacFadden subdued the Yanks 5 to 1, in the first, but Ruth, Gehrig & Co. came back to shell Hod Lisenbee for a 4 to 1 win in the nightcap. Ruth hit his twenty-ninth home run with one on and Gehrig his thirty-first.

Seven pitchers were banded about as the Detroit Tigers took their opener from Cleveland, 11 to 8. Three worked for the winners and four for the Indians, and none was effective.

Four other teams were not scheduled.

Short Ship Sidelights

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

ATTENDANCE figures of last night's races took a noticeable upward jump. Approximately 2,500 persons were on the grounds for the Wednesday night program whereas there were not more than 1,500 present on Tuesday. That's better. The grandstand should be packed every night with the program of races that are being offered.

One nice thing about last night's crowd is that a larger percentage of persons there were paid admissions. Officials of the events, perturbed at the apparent number seeing the races as "guests" of the management, closed several entrances last night. This took a large number off the free list and put them where they should be.

Grandstand patrons were treated to a little entertainment and a large number of wise remarks when an elongated specimen of the dog family wandered onto the track between races and started around the oval as though in an exhibition race. There wasn't much to it but the way that tail wobbled around it looked like he was using it for a rudder.

For some reason the races of this night meeting are being run off with more smoothness and speed than former meetings held in the afternoon. In the previous afternoon meeting here this summer, it required fully three hours to complete a three event program. The three events are now being run off in just a little more than two and one-half hours. Fine work, Steve. Keep 'em moving. They go out to see a horse race not to hear that phonograph broadcast.

ALL-STARS DEFEAT ALLOY STEEL TEAM

The Marion All-Stars chalked up another victory yesterday, winning from the Alloy Steel company team by a 13-5 score. The game was played on the Central Junior High school diamond. The All-Stars will play the Police-Firemen team today at the same place.

Batteries for the game yesterday were: All-Stars, J. Kunkle and Robins; Alloy Putnam and Whitcomb.

Tennis Star

Conqueror of John Hope Doug three times already this season, Ellsworth Vines is at the top of the tennis experts. Vines is showing much improved form over his play of former seasons.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By The Associated Press
Jim Bottomley, Cardinals' hit double, triple and six singles in doubleheader against Pittsburgh. Larry French, Pirates' Held Cards scoreless last nine innings to beat Flint Rhem in 12-inning duel 5 to 4.
Vincent Barton, Cubs. His single in ninth scored Blair with run that beat the Reds, 3 to 2.
Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth, Yankees. Their home runs beat the Red Sox, 4 to 1, in second game of doubleheader.

C., D. & M. ASSURED OF TIE FOR INDUSTRIAL LOOP CHAMPIONSHIP

Kappas Beat Wesley Juniors 8-3 with Men; K. of P. Drubbed.

The C. D. & M. is assured of a tie for the championship in the Industrial recreation baseball league. That much was made certain yesterday when the Electricians combined to solid blows off "Chuck" Burke with some Silk Mill misplays to beat the Weavers 5 to 1. The C. D. & M. has but two games yet to play and holds a two game margin over its nearest rival, the Huber Manufacturing company. The game yesterday was a playoff of a contest postponed last week. Today the Electricians have a chance to clinch undisputed possession of the crown by whipping the Fairfield Engineering company.

Two postponed games were also played off in the Commercial circuit. The Kappas, with only seven men in the lineup, walloped the Wesley Juniors 8-3. This victory shows the Kappas up in a tie with Prospect Firemen for the league lead and paves the way for a better battle Friday when these two teams clash.

In the second Commercial league, the General Excavator staged somewhat of a surprise by walloping the K. of P. nine 6-4. The Excavator staged a five run rally in the fourth inning after trailing from the second frame by four runs. They added another run in the sixth to give them a two run margin. Henry Gilmore after being picked for four markers in the second settled down and held the K. of P. batters well in check the remainder of the game.

"Chuck" Burke, hurling for the Silk Mill, was the victim of some bad fielding on the part of his team mates in the early innings of his game with the C. D. & M. However he was nipped for 10 solid blows during the seven innings so the defeat cannot be charged to misplays. Harold Petter of the winners and "Flash" Daulton of the losers had a good day at bat, the former collecting three clean singles in four times up while the latter banged out a pair of lousy triples in the three trips to the plate.

Gene Geisler led the Kappas at bat against the Wesley Juniors. Five safe hits, three singles and a

LEONARD ANNOUNCES INTENTION TO STAGE COMEBACK ATTEMPT

Former Lightweight Champ Plans Return to Ring With-in Short Time.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Benny Leonard, who quit the ring as king of the lightweights six years ago on the appeal of his mother and with a fortune reputed to be $500,000 has decided to stage a comeback. He says so himself and so does Dapper Jack Kearns, former pilot of Jack Dempsey, present manager of Mickey Walker and now Leonard's comeback mentor on a five-year contract.

Kearns launched the battle today for Leonard with the statement that Benny would do everything from "defending" the lightweight crown he relinquished in 1925, to campaigning for welterweight and middleweight honors.

Before he was introduced last night at the Slattery-Rosenbloom fight, Leonard admitted he weighed 140, two pounds over the welterweight limit and 14 pounds more than the lightweight limit which Benny was having difficulty making as far back as 1923. On this basis, the prospect that Leonard again will mix in lightweight company is so remote as to be invisible.

Shorn of most, if not all of the fortune he accumulated as one of the smartest and most popular ringmen of his day, Leonard's desire to recoup financially was believed a prime factor in his decision to return to the ring.

He has been reported contemplating a comeback so often in recent years, however, that the boxing critics have been skeptical. Their attitude today seemed to be that they will believe it when they actually see Benny in the ring again.

According to Kearns, Leonard already has worked out sufficiently to be in condition to fight by the end of August or early part of September. His first bout, Kearns said, will be held in Chicago. Against an opponent yet to be selected.

Lee Mack, however, was no more equal to the occasion in this heat than was Candida in the first and he lost by about two lengths. Caledonia To Play Essex, Marion Glants on Sunday Caledonia has a double header baseball game booked for Sunday afternoon to be played on the Caledonia diamond. The first game will be with Essex and will be a tri-county league contest. The Caledonia Glants of Marion will furnish the opposition in the second encounter.

The Glants played the Caledonia second team once before this season and defeated it. Now they are returning to try conclusions with the first stringers. Caledonia is now in first place in the tri-county league, having lost but one game this season.

LOSS OF ROETTGER DOESN'T STOP SAINTS

Leaders Beat Toledo 8-3 To Hold Nine-Game Lead; Columbus Wins.

By The Associated Press CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—The loss of Oscar Roettger, St. Paul's first baseman and leading slugger, hasn't slowed the league leaders up any so far.

Roettger suffered an ankle injury more than a week ago, and other clubs looked for signs of sagging. Manager Albert Leffield just moved Morrissey from shortstop to first base and sent Paul Wanninger to short, and things have gone on just as usual. The Saints today had a nine-game lead.

Slim Harris held Toledo to six hits yesterday and St. Paul scored an 8 to 3 victory, that might just as well have been a shutout. Harris had given only one hit until the ninth, but eased up and was nipped for five blows in the final round.

Louisville and Kansas City remained in a tie for fourth place by breaking even in a doubleheader. The Colonels went 10 innings off Bill Swift in the second, and lost 4 to 2.

Al Grabowski was the hero of a 6 to 5 victory for Columbus over Minneapolis. He replaced Ash in the seventh inning, halted a rally and wound up by driving in the winning run in the eleventh inning with a single. Tom Sheehan replaced Dutch Henry in the ninth and was charged with the loss.

Indianapolis held its slender margin in second place by taking a night game from Milwaukee, 4 to 2.

HUBER ENTERS CLUB IN MARION TOURNEY

Findlay, Delaware, Kenton Request Blanks for Entering in Softball Play.

To the Huber Manufacturing company goes the honor of being the first softball team to enter the Central Ohio recreation baseball tournament to be played at Lincoln park on Aug. 16, 30 and September 7. The team is entered under the name of the Huber Rollers and is composed of nearly the same players that represented the company in the city industrial league. Although the Huber company is the first team to officially enter a team there are a number of others who have turned in eligibility papers. Aside from Marion teams, entries from Kenton, Findlay and Delaware have requested blanks for entry.

Teams have another week in which to file their entries for the tourney. From all indications there will be a strong field of teams in the competition. The winner of the tournament will receive a $50 award and the runner-up half of that amount.

Marion teams which have completed in any city league will not be limited to players who are regular members of the team. New players may be added as long as they are listed on the entry blanks. Any information concerning the tournament may be obtained from the sports editor of The Star, "Fido" Robbins, Marion Hinklin or "Hokey" Williams.

THE BIG THING to THINK OF in buying Tires

Why be satisfied with second-choice, when first-choice costs no more?

When you buy tires be sure you get the tire that will give you most for your money.

Be sure you get the tire so far ahead in quality and value that it is outstandingly the first-choice tire of the world.

That tire is the Goodyear Tire. For 16 years it has been true that "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

Recently a great and unbiased public institution completed a nation-wide survey, asking American car owners "What tire is best?"

The vote, representing every section and uninfluenced in any way, shows a preference for Goodyear Tires nearly 2 1/4 times that for the second tire, and five times the average preference for all other makes.

No thinking man will allow mere sales talk to weigh against public testimony like that.

Just keep firmly in mind that Goodyears enjoy leadership because they give the user something extra, and that the user gets that something extra today at no premium in price.

When the high-pressure dealer seeks to sell you a second-choice tire against your better judgment, protect yourself, by asking him this simple question:

"Why should I buy a second-choice tire, when first-choice costs no more?"

STATESMEN ON WAY TO ROME

German Ministers Speed Toward Italy To Visit Premier Benito Mussolini

By The Associated Press
ABOARD THE ROME EXPRESS.
Aug 6 Germany's Itinerant ministers, Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius

On the first of their two nights aboard the train they caused disappointment to their admirers at several stations by retiring almost immediately after leaving Berlin.

immediately after leaving Berlin last night. At Leipzig and several other places, newspapermen, cameramen and small crowds of curious had awaited their arrival but the sleeping car porter assured them that there was no chance of seeing the travelers. When the train arrived at Munich this morn-

The Germans first words on meeting Mussolini and his foreign minister, Dino Grandi, it may be taken for granted, will be words of thanks for his quick acceptance of the Hoover war debt holiday and his statements in favor of revision of the peace treaties.

Bruntz and Curtius have emphasized that their visit to Rome, like that to London and Paris, will be one of free interchange of ideas and not of fixed topics for discussion. Members of their delegation have revealed, however, that they will frankly ask Mussolini just what his objections are to the proposed Austro-German customs accord.

DAIRIES HAVE OWN PROBLEMS

Dr. Gruber Tells Board of Situation Faced Here by Herd Owners.

Lower milk prices while proving a boon to the public, especially to undernourished children of the city's needy, has developed a new problem and one which is causing some worry to dairies as well as to Dr. J. W. Gruber, city milk inspector.

Before milk or milk products can be shipped into any of the larger cities where milk inspection is rigidly enforced, the county must have reached a certain high standard in the maintenance of the dairy farms. According to Dr. Gruber, Marion county has not reached this standard and with milk selling at the lowest price in years, the prospects of reaching the standard are not encouraging.

At the meeting of the city board of health yesterday afternoon, Dr. Gruber said that 90 per cent of the milk producers in the county are ready and willing to bring their farms up to this standard, but they do not have the money. The phase of the question said to be causing the most of the worry to the dairies is the matter of disposing of their surplus milk and milk products. With a ban on these products from counties in which the required standard is not maintained, they are faced with a problem of finding a market.

The phase of the question causing the most worry to Dr. Gruber, however, is the matter of pure milk for the city supply. While by far the larger part of the milk supply now reaching the city, meets every requirement of the standard demanded by the larger cities, there are still some producers who have not met the requirements. Even though the sale of improper milk is not permitted in the city, the failure of these producers to meet the requirements, prevents the county from being lifted from the class on which the ban has been placed by the large cities.

More than 230 gallons of milk was condemned by Dr. Gruber last month, according to his report submitted to the board yesterday. He also reported 25 dairy and 16 farm inspections. One hundred pounds of fish was also condemned by the inspector last month.

CARD OF THANKS
To friends, neighbors, relatives and organizations, we wish to express our deepest appreciation for their kindness and sympathy during the loss of our beloved late son and brother, those who gave the many beautiful floral tributes, and ministers and singers for their kind services.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Cline and Family.

Police Head Kidnaped.
EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Aug. 6.—Chief of Police Floyd Lyons was "kidnaped" early today at Chester, W. Va., and whisked across the Ohio river to East Liverpool in an automobile by a man he attempted to arrest. Lyons jumped from the car here and was cut and bruised when he was thrown to the pavement.

Thus it has come to be with Perry Wainwright Cline, the second son of Harvey E. and Anna B. Altmendinger Cline, who was born in Waldo Township, Sept. 12, 1904, and who departed this life July 27, 1931, at the age of 26 years, 10 months and 15 days. He leaves his parents; two brothers, Raymond E. and Harold A.; and one sister, Mary Esther; also his maternal grandmother, Mrs. J. M. Altmendinger, whose hearts are deeply bowed in grief, but who mourn not as those who have no hope. But who give thanks that their dear one has lived and on their lives such goodness poured, that with the sunshine of the past their later, lonelier years may be stored. Perry was educated in the public schools of Prospect and graduated with the class of 1922. He was associated with his father in agriculture and stock-raising, and he was considered one of the community's prominent young farmers. He was interested in various farm organizations, being the Secretary-Treasurer of the Marion County Farm Bureau; the assistant manager of the Marion County Live Stock Association. He was a representative of the Farm Bureau Automobile Insurance Co., and president of the Prospect Township Farm Bureau; all of these offices he filled with honor. He also served as assistant mail-carrier on rural route No. 2 of Prospect. While he was interested in the material things he was not negligent of the Master's Command "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness." For from a child up he sought a faith's pure shrine and became an avowed confessor in and follower of Jesus Christ. Having received the rites of Baptism in babyhood and later he was instructed in the doctrines of the church and exercised faith in Jesus Christ, being confirmed in catechism and received into full membership and fellowship on June 2, 1918, in the Bethlehem M. E. Church under the pastorate of the Rev. Theo. F. Lagemann. He was a true and faithful member of the church and a regular attendant at the church services. He was formerly teacher of the Young Peoples Class in Sunday School and at the time of his death he was the assistant teacher. He was an upright, Christian young man, valued as a friend and a neighbor, courteous, true and obliging to all. He loved his friends and his home and he was true to all their interests. Besides his immediate loved ones he leaves a host of other relatives and friends who are legion. "O rare, sweet soul, so early passed beyond. What sights are to thy raptured vision given? How suddenly hast thou gone so far away? We cannot reach thee? Whither art thou fled?" These are our questionings and our grief; for us the night, for thee, Dear Perry, the day where suns unsetting shine. And with these lines, that he loved so much while here, we close.

Under the wide and starry sky
Dig the grave and let me lie.
Glad did I live and gladly die,
And I laid me down with a will.

This be the verse you grave for me!
Here he lies where he longed to be;
Home is the sailor, home from the sea,
And the hunter home from the hill.

LOCAL DELEGATION TO ATTEND MEETING

Marion Eagles To Be Well Represented at Toledo Sessions.

Final arrangements to send ten delegates, a drum corps, and a degree team from the Women's Auxiliary to the state and national conventions in Toledo next week were made last night at the regular meeting of Buckeye Aerie No. 337, F. O. E., at the lodge hall. A special car of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad has been chartered to take the Marion representatives to Toledo. This car is to be attached to the "Sportsman" and will leave here about 4:30 a. m. Aug. 13, and will be for about 19 members of the degree team, 25 members of the drum corps, and any others planning to attend the conventions. It will return the same night.

The 10 delegates from the Marion lodge will leave Sunday for the sessions, which will continue until the latter part of next week. The state convention adjourns Thursday, and the national convention ends Saturday.

Conrad H. Mann of Kansas City, Mo., managing organizer of the national organization, Frank E. Herling of South Bend, Ind., editor of the Eagles Magazine, and Robert Proctor of Elkhart, Ind., grand worthy president of the national organization, will be among the prominent Eagles to address the sessions.

State officials who will speak are David Barry of Cleveland, state president, N. L. Brown of Springfield, state secretary, and Henry Herridon of Akron, past state president and head of the state organization department.

The next local Eagles' meeting will be held Aug. 19 at the hall for reports of the two conventions.

DR. A. A. STARNER'S BROTHER CLAIMED

Dr. A. A. Starnier of south Main street returned last night from Glenmont, O., where he attended the funeral of his brother, Edward Starnier, 64. Mr. Starnier was by profession a teacher, lawyer and breeder of livestock and was a leader in the community in which he lived. He served as mayor of Glenmont for years, finally declining the nomination and retiring. He leaves a wife, a son, a daughter and grandchildren. Mr. Starnier died Sunday night. Funeral services were held yesterday.

DEVASTATION MARKS CHINA FLOOD PATH

Thousands Reported Dead. Hundreds of Thousands Homeless.

By The Associated Press
HANKOW, China, Aug. 6.—Thousands were reported dead, hundreds of thousands were homeless and famine and disease hovered over central and north China today as the Great Yangtze and Yellow rivers overflowed their banks, inundating vast areas.

Appeals for aid throughout the area, which embraces a population of 200 millions, poured in upon the government.

No accurate tally of the dead, injured and homeless was possible, but the government's relief committee estimated 50,000,000 persons were or soon would be afflicted.

Torrential rains for the last three weeks have sent the Yangtze and Yellow rivers and their tributaries to record heights. Many cities were flooded.

Search Fails To Locate Missing Party in Arctic

BY DAN DRESSER

United Press Staff Correspondent
ABOARD SOVIET ICEBREAKER MALYGIN, by radio at sea, Aug. 6.—We have failed to find Captain Raold Amundsen on Rudolph island.

With a group of Russians from the Malygin, I visited Rudolph island today in search of the brave explorer whose airplane hunt for General Umberto Nobil, of our present party, and his companions of the dirigible Italia, resulted in his disappearance in 1928.

We easily located the cache of supplies left by the Italia party a generation ago, but there was no sign of Amundsen or the six Italians lost from the Italia crew.

The house on the island is still standing and in good condition. Many supplies are in fair shape.

Canned corned beef in the was still edible. There was no sign that it had been visited within years.

The Malygin will be unable to penetrate farther to the north on account of heavy ice. Even this craft constructed by for ice breaking is unable to combat. We are therefore turning to the southeastward in search of the six Italians the Italia for whose safety Nobil still entertains hope.
